

Jennifer Chavez Rubio

Jennifer Chavez Rubio is the Interim Chief Executive Officer of Hispanics in Philanthropy (HIP). She brings more than two decades of experience in philanthropy, public service, and nonprofit leadership, with a career rooted in grantmaking, partnership-building, and strengthening philanthropic systems across the United States and globally.

Before HIP, Jennifer served as Senior Program Officer at the Gates Foundation, where she worked within the Global Policy & Advocacy division to advance equitable grantmaking practices, philanthropic partnerships, and sector data and insights to drive more and better giving. Her philanthropic leadership also includes senior roles at the United States Peace Corps, where she directed global grants programs and public-private partnerships, as well as earlier work with the Silicon Valley Community Foundation, The San Francisco Foundation, and Mile High United Way. She has also held leadership roles in corporate philanthropy at Medtronic, Lockheed Martin, and Genentech. Jennifer holds a Master of Nonprofit Management from Regis University and a Bachelor of Arts in Sociology from Stanford University. Jennifer resides in the Washington, DC area with her husband and three sons.
